

Week 14 AR

I thought this week was pretty cool. I didn't know there were so many AR apps out. I really enjoyed Artivive, as you can see in the recording I made my own art which I thought was super cool. I can see why so many people want to dive into AR, and expand on it. It's such a cool concept, and if people are able to succeed in it, it could just be the next big thing. It could be so helpful for so many students such as electricians, engineers, or even doctors. AR allows people to process the physical and digital aspect, eliminating the need to mentally bridge the two together.